The Daily Courant.

Thurſday, May 15. 1707.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated May 20.

Naples, April 26.

OUR Viceroy has conferr'd the Government of the Abruzzo, which the Duke d'Atri voluntarily laid down, on his own Son the Count de St. Iſtevan. His Excellency having well provided the Caſtles of this City for Defence, has likewiſe poſted ſtrong Guards in all the Avenues to this Capital, and has given Order for 10000 of the Militia that are on Foot in this Kingdom, to come and poſt themſelves before the Gate of Capua, for our greater Security and Defence if attack'd.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated May 20.

Bayone, May 7. The Queen Dowager of Spain has ſent one of her Gentlemen to Madrid, to congratulate King Philip on the Advantage gain'd over the Army of the Allies on the Frontier of Valencia. Several Veſſels laden with Ammunition arriv'd here lately from Breſt, Port Louis, and Rochelle: Their Lading was immediately landed and ſent to Navarre.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated May 20.

Genoa, April 30. Signior Benedetto Viale is on his Departure for Holland and England, in Quality of Envoy extraordinary from this Republick. The Duke of Tuſcany has already paid 50000 Piſtoles Contribution to the Imperial Commiſſaries, and 'tis ſaid will pay a like Sum at the End of the Year.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated May 19.

Baſil, May 11. The Dutcheſs of Mantua and the Princeſs of Vaudemont paſs'd through this City Yeſterday in the Evening in their Way to Hunningben, being accompanied by a Nobleman of the Court of Lorrain, who is to conduct them to Luneville.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated May 21.

Heylbron, May 14. The Marſhal de Villars is arriv'd at Strasbourg, has given Order for the Troops he commands to draw together, and 'tis advis'd will have a ſtronger Army than was talk'd of, ſo that the Enemy will act offenſively on the Upper Rhine, and be the firſt in the Field: They have a good Train of Artillery in a Readyneſs, and give out they will come over the Rhine and attack the Lines of Stolhoffen; but thoſe Lines are ſo ſtrong and provided with ſo good a Guard that we are not in any Apprehenſion for them, tho' the Imperialiſts will hardly draw together ſoon enough and in a ſufficient Number to diſpute the Enemy's paſſing the Rhine.

Francfort, May 14. The French are ſo elated with their Victory in Spain, that they threaten not only to paſs the Rhine, but to ravage the Territories of Baden, and to penetrate through the Black-Forreſt to Swabia.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated May 20.

They write from Frankfort the 15th of May, that the Duke of Wirtemberg having view'd the Lines of Stolhoffen was gone back to Stutgard his uſual Place of Reſidence: That his Troops were on the March towards the ſaid Lines: That there were at Hand on the Rhine Troops enow to form an Army of 20000 Men in 24 Hours: That the Garriſon of Landau had receiv'd Order to draw out and encamp behind the little River Queich which runs before that Town: And that there was a great Deſertion from the Body of about 10000 Men which the French have form'd near new Briſac.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated May 19.

Mons, May 11. A Camp is mark'd out at Givry, and 'tis rumour'd that the Elector of Bavaria is to command a flying Camp in this Part of the Country, yet to keep within a proper Diſtance to joyn the Duke of Vendome, who is ſingly to command the grand Army, when there ſhall be Occaſion. Notwithſtanding our Magazines are ſo fill'd with Meal, Forrage, and Ammunition, that we are oblig'd to make Uſe of the Monaſteries for Store-houſes, great Quantities are ſtill brought in daily; ſo that never was ſo ample a Proviſion of Stores ſeen before.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated May 21.

Liege, May 17. The Regiment of Seckendorf went from hence this Morning for Maeſtricht, thence to march to the Army; and 'tis reported 10 Battallions more are to draw out of the Towns on the Maeſe to march thither likewiſe, a Reſolution being taken to reinforce the Army with 25 Battallions more than were at firſt deſign'd, in order to render it the more able to force the Enemy to an Engagement. The French, puff'd up with their Victory in Spain, give out they will venture a Battle: They are forming 3 Camps, one for their grand Army near Mons, one for another Body at Givri, and the third near Conde: And they give out, that when the laſt Troops they expect from Dauphine are arriv'd, their Army will conſiſt of 140 Battallions and 196 Squadrons.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated May 20.

Ghent, May 18. The 16th in the Morning our Garriſon, conſiſting of 12 Engliſh Regiments of Foot and 5 of Horſe, with their Train of Artillery, march'd from hence towards Briſſuels. Yeſterday the Duke of Wirtemberg with the Garriſon of Bruges, conſiſting of 4 Regiments of Scots and 5 of Danes, and with 9 Squadrons of Horſe which had been quarter'd in the open Country, march'd through this City. To Day the Garriſons of Courtray and Menin will come to Drongen, and paſs through this Place to Morrow. All theſe Troops are made up of well-choſen Men, and will arrive the 20th near Bruſſels.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated May 21.

Bruſſels, May 18. We have Intelligence that only a few French Regiments are encamp'd near Pont Eſpieres

Eſpieres on the Schelde. Lieutenant General Lumley and Major General Wood came Yeſterday to Aſſche with the Engliſh Horſe from Ghent; the Engliſh Foot are coming by the ſame Route, and are follow'd by the Garriſons of Bruges, Dam and Oſtend. Part of the Troops that lay about Louvain paſs'd by this Place this Morning to the general Rendezvous: The Pruſſians have paſs'd our Canal at Wilvorde, as has alſo the Artillery that came from Mechlen. 'Tis ſaid the Duke of Marlborough will be going from hence the 20th to the Camp near Andernach.

Falmouth, May 10. To Day came in 4 Ships from the Canaries.

Plymouth, May 11. This Morning 2 French Privateers of about 40 Guns each, took an Engliſh Galley of about 24 Guns, juſt as ſhe was coming into this Sound.

Portſmouth, May 13. Yeſterday ſail'd on the Back of the Iſle of Wight about 100 Sail of Dutch Ships, bound from Holland for Portugal, under the Convoy of 6 Dutch Men of War and 2 Privateers. To Day came in 2 Ships from Hambourg bound for Oporto; the Maſters of which report, that between Beachey-Head and the Iſle of Wight, 14 French Capers, carrying from 44 to 18 Guns, were on board them, and plunder'd them of all their Proviſions; and 6 Sail more they ſaw driving to the Southward of them, which they ſuppoſe to be Privateers. To Day alſo came in 2 Ships from Genoa, which adviſe, that they met 8 Sail of Engliſh Men of War 2 Days ago off Dartmouth.
